

I don't want to live in a cookie-cutter society, where every radio station plays the same thing. This morning while driving to work I had to ask myself why are there absolutely no protest songs or politically controversial songs during this time. And where is the coverage of the "war" now? Someone is deciding what the American people will hear and see. I support limiting the soul owner-ship of the media.